Press Inquiry In Tragic Circus Fire Which Leaves 159 Dead

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

HITLER'S devilishly ingenious robot bombs may be the ill wind which blows some good to a world that is determined to find real peace.

This indiscriminate killing of civilians, with a monster which the Nazi frankenstein can't control in its murders, will go far towards insuring that Germany gets the just punishment she escaped in the last war because the Allies got soft-hearted. She'll get the Prussian gangsterism choked out of her this time.

John Bull's immediate reaction is a fresh boiling up of fierce hatred for Nazidom and its barbarities. One would expect a similar bitterness among the other Allies, for Hitler is committing an act which is contrary to civilized practice in warfare—"vengeance fire" his war communique called it yesterday.

Thus the Nazi dictator's hope of wangling soft peace terms, and escaping personal retribution, is indeed slim. The London Daily Telegraph sums the thing up succinctly today when it says:

"Flying bombs will not be forgotten when the day comes to settle accounts with Germany. Meanwhile this desultory and indiscriminate fire will drive nobody from his post."

We needn't labor the savagery of this winged death. It's just one of those things to be logged down in Hitler's book of doom for future reference. We should keep straight in our minds, however, the distinction between civilian deaths which are incidental to the bombing of military objectives in cities, and deliberate civilian murder for the purpose of breaking morale.

England isn't beefing over this fresh frightfulness. The London Cockney just hitches up his pants and spits over his shoulder in a gesture of defiance which speaks for the nation. The silence is ominous.

Prime Minister Churchill during his discussion of the robot bomb in the house of commons yesterday made a remark to which observers attach much significance in relation to the Allied attitude towards the Reich. He said:

"Introduction by the Germans of such a weapon obviously raises some grave questions."

THIS HAS BEEN interpreted generally as meaning that such indiscriminate bombing of civilians will influence the terms imposed on Germany at war's end. If that's what Churchill has in mind, it is indeed of vast importance, for in recent months those people who favor leniency towards the Ger-

FIVE SHOWMEN CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Grief-Stricken Relatives Visit Temporary Morgue After Tragedy

(By Associated Press)

HARTFORD, Conn., July 7.—The death toll in the fire which destroyed the main-top of the Ringling brothers circus beneath which 6,000 panic-stricken, shrieking spectators fought to escape enveloping shrouds of burning canvas jumped today to 159 as investigators pressed inquiries into the origin of the blaze and simultaneously held in heavy bail five officials of the company.

The injured, many of them in grave condition, scattered in three Hartford hospitals were counted in the holocaust.

Not a circus performer was lost in the solocaut.

As a steady stream of weary relatives continued to went through the grim aisles of the dead in the huge sprawling state armory these officials of the circus were arraigned in police court charged with manslaughter.

J. A. Haley, vice president; George W. Smith, general manager; Leonard Aylesworth, boss canvas man; Edward Verstei, chief electrician; and David Blanchfield chief wagon man.

July 19 Hearings Set

After having been detained throughout the night at police headquarters Haley and Smith were held in $15,000 bail and the others in $10,000 for a hearing July 19.

Meanwhile investigators seeking to establish a reason for the startlingly rapid spread of the blaze which all eye-witnesses agreed mushroomed with incredible speed from a tiny finger of flame near the main entrance to a gigantic inferno of smoke and fire.

The fire, acknowledged to be the greatest disaster in American circus history, reduced the show's main tent to ashes within less than an hour yesterday and brought injury to at least 225 of the estimated 6,000 spectators.

Mine Rescue Crews Using Huge Drills

(By Associated Press)

BELLAIRE, July 7.—Skilled crews prepared today to begin drilling through 350 feet of earth in the desperate hope of reaching 64 men who were trapped in the Powhatan mine 15 miles south of here.

Two high-speed drills, one three inches in diameter, the other nine inches, were being brought here to sink shafts through which food and water could be lowered to the coal miners if they are alive.

The men were trapped in a dead-end corridor. Wednesday when a rock fall broke a trolley line and started a blaze that cut them off from escape through the main shaft.

The mine was sealed to smother the fire which raged out of control as rescue workers sought to reach the imprisoned men. No word has been received from the miners since the fire broke out.

Workmen toiled throughout the night to move the bulky drilling equipment over wooded slopes above the place the men are imprisoned.

Joseph Chadwick, assistant superintendent of the mine rescue department of the Ohio Division of Mines, estimated it would require five days for men working round-the-clock to force the big bit through the roof of the entry in which the men are imprisoned.

Matthew Speicher, personnel manager of the Powhatan Mining Co., said it would require no more than two days for the smaller drill to bite through the earth separating the trapped men and the drillers.

American Fighter Pilots Run Up Score in Aerial Battle Today

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 7.—Eighty air force fighters, escorting more than 1,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators in attacks on airplane factories and oil refineries at seven places in central Germany this morning, shot down 75 German enemy fighters in the greatest air battle since D-Day.

Nearly 1,000 fighters convoyed the big bombers.

German broadcasts said another U. S. force was attacking the reich from the south.

The Germans offered the most desperate resistance in the air in several weeks, sending up 100 planes near Leipzig, and one American Thunderbolt pilot, Capt. Fred Christensen of Watertown, Mass., made a record for the European theater by shooting down six enemy fighters.

American Fortresses and Liberators drove deep into the heart of Germany and dropped thousands of bombs on the Leipzig suburb of Mockau, Lutzendorf and other places.

A big airplane works at Mockau has been hit several times before and the Germans undoubtedly have been striving to rehabilitate it to bolster the steadily dwindling Luftwaffe. The attack was a violent follow-up of a double American bomb yesterday at the Kiel naval base and the rocket bomb cradles in the Pas-De-Calais department of France.

The Germans said the force attacking from Italy dropped bombs near the Austria-Hungary border and pushed on over Czechoslovakia into German Silesia. A Vienna airbase was bombed last night along with oil and rail facilities in northern Italy.

These daylight forays followed the third successive night assault on western Germany by RAF Mosquitos, squadrons of which also braved terrific thunderstorms and attacked railroads from the Normandy battle zone to Lemans, 75 miles to the south.

The sirens sounded in London today and flying bombs were falling again in southern England.

Death toll in the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus fire at Hartford, Conn., now at the 159 mark, was expected to rise following a complete check of hospitals were many seriously burned victims were taken. Most of the victims, either burned or trampled to death when flames turned the mammoth 550-foot "big top" into a fiery pyre during the afternoon performance, were children.

Troops Strike New Blow In Du Puit Area

(By Associated Press)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 7.—British second army patrols penetrated today to the docks of Caen as American troops jumped off in a new attack across the Vire river on the eastern side of the La Haye Du Puits-Carentan-St. Lo arc in a threat to the enemy's flank in Normandy.

(BBC quoted its front line correspondent as saying the Americans have "captured and pushed beyond La Haye Du Puits." The report was not immediately confirmed from other sources.)

Allied patrols pushed through German defenses west of Caen at the eastern end of the Allied battleline and reached the dock area without encountering any Germans, a report to Supreme headquarters said.

However, front line dispatches reported no indication that the Germans were abandoning their long-contested eastern pivot. It was believed the Germans were holding only parts of the town as strong-points as the result of severe bombings.

Although all but one escape bridge from Caen, a pontoon bridge across the Orne river, had been destroyed, Roger D. Greene, Associated Press war correspondent, said the Germans still were strongly entrenched at Caen.

A field dispatch said the doughboys waded across the stream in the half-light of dawn, established a bridgehead in low marshy country, and then hit the enemy on the flank.

The new drive, in an area five miles southeast of Caen, broadened the American offensive front across the base of the Cherbourg peninsula to approximately 25 miles.

The U. S. First army forces of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley meanwhile scored gains of from one to two miles in their drive to grab La Haye Du Puits, the western anchor of the enemy's Normandy line.

Driving south from St. Jores, six miles east of besieged La Haye Du Puits, American infantry plunged to the La Plessis canal in a two-mile advance while another column captured Le Mont, a mile and a half southwest of La Haye. Fighting continued in La Haye itself.

On the Caen front in the east, Canadian troops tightened their grip on Carpiquet, three miles west of the city of Caen. The Germans, however, still held the prize airfield south of Carpiquet, and Marshal Erwin Rommel's Panzers drove the British out of the eastern edge of Vernon, two miles south and slightly west of Carpiquet.

Yesterday's good weather faded this morning and heavy clouds formed a low ceiling, making most flying impossible.

A front-line dispatch from Ross Munro, Canadian press war correspondent, said the entire Canadian army at Carpiquet is covered with silt trenches. Munro declared Carpiquet had been raked by more enemy shellfire than any other spot along the front.

In the continuing battle for La Haye, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American troops have captured high ground to the west, north and east of the Nazi stronghold, and its fall is considered only a matter of time.

Inside the town itself the Americans were reported holding the northern edge after twice being driven out. The Germans clung to the southern portion.

The American encircling drive to the south threatened to cut the one escape highway for the Germans by plunging to Le Mont. The village of Montgondry in the same area also fell into American hands.

GERMANS HALT YANKS IN ITALY

Lash Out At Fifth Army Troops For First Attack In Two Months

(By Associated Press)

ROME, July 7.—Lashing out from outposts of the heavily fortified Gothic line in their first aggressive action in two months, the German defenders of northern Italy have brought the Fifth army's drive toward Livorno (Leghorn), Pisa and Florence almost to a halt, Allied headquarters said today.

The Eighth army also measured its gains in yards instead of miles.

A stiff house-to-house battle continued to rage day and night in the village of Rosignano, where American infantry who have penetrated to within 10 airline miles of Livorno were attempting to smash through heavily manned strongpoints.

From the west coast along a sector extending at least 30 miles inland, the enemy struck back at the Americans. At some points the Germans strove to infiltrate and break into newly-gained Allied positions and were thrown back only after brisk engagements.

Also along this front enemy infantry and tanks were backed up by increasingly active German artillery, with long range 170-millimeter rifles sending big shells screaming over the lines in a harassing fire against Fifth army supply routes.

East of Rosignano equally strong resistance was encountered in the area of Castellina, at Colle Di Val D'Elsa and north of Montecatini. The greatest advance came when American tanks moved up three miles, capturing high ground northwest and northeast of Montecatini. Other Americans fighting alongside the French pushed through fierce opposition along highway No. 2 to a point three miles northeast of Colle Di Val D'Elsa.

A Berkshire county jury, which had sat through five weeks of trial, deliberated less than five hours before deciding that the prominent attorney had taken his child's life last Sept. 22, "with deliberate premeditation and malice aforethought."

In Massachusetts, the death penalty is mandatory for first degree murder, but it was not known whether Judge Abraham E. Pinanski would pass sentence immediately.

It was expected that defense counsel would enter an appeal. In such an event the court could impose sentence and at the same time stay its execution pending the outcome of the appeal before the Supreme court.

The baby met death a few weeks after child specialists had informed the Noxon's that the baby was a "mongoloid type."

BOOMLET

In the light of the fact that the only political excitement in sight is the remote chance that the Democrats might do something about Henry A. Wallace at their convention, the small-sized boomlet for Henry J. Kaiser is refreshing.

For a matter of a few days, it will be pleasant to think of the possibilities of Mr. Kaiser in a national election. He might bring his managerial genius to bear with some startling results. But alas, it can be no more than a thought.

These boomlets come and go and rarely have any consequences. When the time actually comes for Democratic delegates to decide whether or not they will vote for the candidate they are going to be given, look for Mr. Wallace again. An electorate which is going to be urged to stay in the middle of the New Deal stream hardly could be urged to send ashore for one new horse without giving it ideas about two new horses and a chance to get out of the stream.

DELICATE MISSION

Gen. Charles de Gaulle's visit in Washington is fraught with great consequences—not all of them French. The leader of the French National committee has come to typify something that stirs deep doubts about the credo of internationalism—doubts which themselves are international.

In the United States, they are doubts of the propriety of Gen. de Gaulle's demand for favor and of the propriety of the clamor in his behalf raised in this country. These things have little or nothing to do with the grim business which is swelling the casualty lists in the European theater of war, yet to hear the partisans speak of them American men are dying and being hurt in France chiefly to further certain vaguely defined and widely misunderstood French political ambitions.

Gen. de Gaulle has a great opportunity to put over the idea belatedly that he wants nothing from the American war effort in France but a chance to serve the French people, if and when they ask for his help.

THE NEW HITLER

The new Hitler emerging from the circumstances of Germany's distress does not talk about what is going to happen to Frenchmen, Jews, Russians, or the English. He does not speak of the decadence of the United States or the reprisals he will turn loose against Germany's enemies.

He speaks of Germany's sorrows and the necessity of finding hitherto unheard of strength, nerves and determination to withstand its trials. He promises his countrymen they will not surrender and urges them to be as brave as their soldiers at the front.

This is not the boasting Hitler. This is a Hitler who must stand before his disillusioned countrymen and tell them they are getting licked; who must urge them to fight to the last man. This is not the fuhrer organizing a German empire, but the politician presiding at the collapse of an unsuccessful war. The indomitable leader has nothing to offer now but national ruin.

The war is not over, but the German people are closer to acknowledged defeat than they ever were in World War I, which ended under circumstances that left most of them convinced they should have won. There could be nothing better done with Hitler when Germany has lost the war, if he can be captured alive, than to make him tell his own people day after day that he led them into defeat.

RESISTANCE AT THE BUG

There is less likelihood of German resistance on the Bug river line in central Poland than there was on the other Bug river line in the western Ukraine last year. If the herrenvolk's harassed generals couldn't prepare a defense then, they stand a smaller chance of preparing one now. This is not the same Bug river, but it is the same war.

The speed of the Russian offensive promises to carry it in a few more days to the first German soil reached in World War II—East Prussia. It was the Polish Corridor separating East Prussia from Germany which was used as the nominal excuse for the attack on Poland almost five years ago now. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that by Sept. 1, anniversary of the attack on Poland, that country will be in Russia's control. On Aug. 21 will occur another anniversary—the fifth anniversary of the announcement of the non-aggression agreement between Germany and Russia. It was to prove to be the crowning act of the cynicism which marked the end of the feeble hope of peace which had survived the previous machinations and bad faith of statemen. The pact was signed in Moscow on Aug. 24 and bound the signatories to refrain from any act of force against each other and also to refrain from supporting warlike acts against either by third parties.

The two countries which lunged at Poland in 1939 and now are lunging at each other might well pause a few moments at the Bug river line to commemorate the changes five years have made in their situations.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, July 8

A SUDDENLY precipitated event or set of circumstances, although proving disconcerting, amazing and possibly threatening a radical and far reaching upheaval or crisis in the affairs, should eventuate in surprising progress and good fortune. The abruptness of this occurrence might be so exciting that its importance may be undermined. This demands a serious weighing of conditions, with reason, sound decisions but as well with alacrity and swift grasp of exceptional opportunities. These affect the business, financial and purely personal ties and should be considered with due regard for legal, and conventional tents. Shun arguments and twisted ideas.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of sudden and quite unprecedented opportunities for turning the tide of threatened events into progressive, productive and highly gratifying channels of achievement. There may be devastating or disruptive circumstances, but these handled with reason, sound insight, ingenuity and sagacity should bring excellent returns of radical reactions on the future, its fortunes, and gratifying security. Shun strife, discussions, legal entanglements and happiness and high adventure are in sight.

Federal Yoke On Labor
(Ohio State Journal)

The federal yoke has at last been clamped on the neck of free American labor. Under a directive, whose legality is questioned because it has no sanction by Congress, Manpower Czar Paul McNutt orders that from now on, any male American worker, except a farmer, who wants a job must go to the federal U. S. Employment Service to find it and, if he does find it, take what the USES dictates. The only exceptions are those that local USES boards themselves may make, such as granting "gate hire" permission.

It is to be doubted whether any American ever expected to see in this country a situation under which our workers will operate just as they would in a dictatorship. McNutt, in fact, has set himself up as a dictator in the field of labor and so long as the Roosevelt-New Deal-Communist party remains in power, labor has no assurance it will ever be freed from the federal shackles now clamped on it.

As Congressman Buffett of Nebraska expressed it, "the true liberty of man is . . . snuffed out in America." He added that this is a decisive step toward "slave labor battalions" and that it was taken "in full defiance of Congress."

Under the procedure which now is operative, any male, except a farmer, who wants a job must present himself to the USES, unless he is in an area where "gate hiring" has been permissible. If the USES so designates, he must present himself at some union "hiring hall" and take the work dictated to him, whether he likes it or not. He may not even then be given a job near home, where he has his responsibilities and his family. He may be ordered to work in any area where Dictator McNutt says he is "urgently needed." If he doesn't like it, there is nothing he can do about it, because McNutt's bureau has issued the decree and a district court of appeals has ruled that "where the law conflicts with a bureau's order, the law must give way."

Those radicals who dominate a considerable element of labor's organized ranks have tried to convince America's workers that the New Deal is their friend. McNutt's dictator-action will open labor's eyes. It puts on free men a shackle which denies them the right of choice of jobs or where they will hold these jobs; it drives them to a federal bureau which, in turn, will siphon them into whatever channels it chooses. So long as such procedure is a part of the American scene, labor in our nation is no longer free.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Summer Danger From Dogs

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WAR EFFECTS many aspects of life indirectly and apparently remotely. Judging from the number of dogs that almost hourly go past my windows either in packs or in pairs or singly, nearly always rushing excitedly and apparently aimlessly along the street, I can understand that the routine of man's best friend has been seriously upset.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Meat rationing hit him, owners turn their pets loose to forage for the food they can't spare themselves and the hungry dog on the loose goes after rabbits, squirrels, chipmunks, and, besides, they associate too much with each other. All this makes an ideal situation for the development of rabies, or hydrophobia, and is, of course, a direct danger to man, especially in the summer months.

I have a letter from a Pennsylvania town which prompted me to call attention to the matter.

"Since the clean up of stray dogs is going on, and several dogs have shown rabies, I suggest a discussion of the proper treatment in suspected cases." Doctors do not seem to be alert to the danger.

Two Fatal Cases
"My own little boy died suddenly last fall. He was bitten by a neighbor's St. Bernard through the lip. This was in June and the doctor said anti-rabies treatment was not necessary. The boy became suddenly sick in November with convulsions and fever and died 24 hours later. I have since heard of another case, a lady who died very suddenly and the coroner said it was the result of a dog bite on the lip received six months before."

Rabies affects all mammals and cases have been reported from the bite of skunks, wolves, cats and squirrels, but the responsibility of the spread of the disease to man rests mainly on dogs. Dogs are very susceptible to infection, man very slightly susceptible. If 10 humans are bitten by a provedly mad dog, and none of them receive immunizing treatments, only one, according to statistics, will on the average develop hydrophobia.

The virus enters through the bite or any break in the skin (there are cases where the infection occurred in a cut on the hand when the owner petted a sick dog and the dog licked the cut on the hand). It travels along the nerve paths to the brain. That is why it usually takes so long to produce symptoms. If it travelled by blood vessels the incubation period would be shorter.

Types of Rabies
In the dog the dumb form of rabies occurs in only about 20 per cent of cases. And these are often the more dangerous kind because the dog is not spotted as a mad dog and may be approached and handled when suddenly it will snap and the damage is done. The "furious" form in which the dog is excited and restless and finally becomes very agitated and goes on a snapping and biting spree occurs in 80 per cent of instances. Fre-the diagnosis is not always easy even by experts and it is better to let the disease run its course so that the signs will be most evident.

Any bite by an animal proved rabid should call for Pasteur inoculations. While gossip rumors will assert that the serum is dangerous there is no proof of this and the dangers of letting the case drift are greater. The first thing to be done with any dog bite is to sterilize or cauterize the wound with alcohol or nitric acid to attempt to kill the virus at the source.

WARNS DEMOCRATS ON OVER-OPTIMISM

Chairman Hanegan, In Ohio Talk, Calls For Vigorous Campaign

COLUMBUS, July 7.—Robert E. Hanegan, the Democratic party's new national chairman, last night advised Ohio party leaders to avoid over-optimism about the outcome of the November election.

"Don't lean back," he told a be-lated Jackson day dinner gathering, "and expect a voice on the radio to win the election."

Urging all party leaders to carry on a vigorous campaign, he cautioned them against undue criticism of the opposition.

"I pledge that as far as I am concerned this will be a campaign not for the party but for the country," he declared. "We cannot hope to match the financing and organization of the opposition party, but we can match them in zeal and energy in the coming campaign."

The Republican party, Hanegan asserted, is playing "weather vane" politics, while the Democratic party is "on a fixed course to victory and peace," as charted by the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The new national chairman expressed confidence that "Roosevelt is going to be the nominee and that we are going to win."

Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland, the party's nominee for governor, urged a campaign minus the customary "mud slinging."

The Republican party, he said, is "prepared to malign and vilify the greatest leader in the world today—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Asserting that "we cannot stoop to malice even though at the minute it might serve our purpose," Lausche said defeat was better than victory won by such methods.

"It is better," he commented, "that we go down to defeat than stoop to such things—the welfare of the state is too great. Let's look our adversaries straight in the eye and make our campaign up the issues in which we have profound convictions."

FIVE SHOWMEN

State police estimated two-thirds of the dead were children and said most of the adult victims were women.

A chilling quiet prevailed at the morgue, broken only occasionally by the sudden sob of a mother recognizing some whisp of her child's clothing on a twisted and blackened figure.

Cause of the blaze remained undetermined today, but an investigation was started immediately under the governor's direction.

Warrants charging four circus officials with manslaughter were issued last night by Police Court Prosecutor S. Burr Leikind, who said other arrests might be made today.

Starts Near Entrance

Only the first act, the performance of the trained animals, had been completed when the blaze, at first so small that, as one witness said, it could have been extinguished with a bucket of water, was seen near the main entrance of the big top.

The first move toward the exits was orderly and many of the children making their way from the tiers of seats were seen laughing excitedly.

But when the flames roared with terrifying speed to consume the entire canvas body, the audience became a fighting screaming, terror-stricken mass.

The performing animals had been safely herded through the caged runway back to their trucks when the blaze was first seen. It was the runaway, spectators said, which trapped many of the audience under the fiery canvas as it fell.

Scene Horrible, Clown Says

The scene was described by Felix Adler, the show's famous clown, as the most horrible ever witnessed by a circus performer.

"We heard a roar like applause," Adler said, describing what happened in the performers' dressing room. "Only we knew the animal act was over and there shouldn't be applause. We knew then something was wrong. Then we smelled smoke. . . I thought the menagerie fire in Cleveland (in August, 1942), which injured three circus employees and killed 40 animals) was the worst thing I could ever see, but no one in the circus business has ever seen anything as horrible as this."

Herbert Duval, circus adjuster, declared, "we're out of the business." But Roland Butler, general press representative, predicted that the show would return to the road later this summer.

Butler reported all the show's animals were saved and none of the performers had been injured seriously.

Estimates of the fire loss ranged from $75,000 to $300,000.

DE GAULLE SAYS

States government.

The chance of personality clashes such as marked the last meeting of DeGaulle and President Roosevelt at Casablanca 18 months ago appears to have vanished in an atmosphere of marked friendliness, keyed already by an exchange of pledges between DeGaulle and Secretary of State Hull for French-American unity.

The general had a luncheon date at the White House in early afternoon. Thereafter until dinner time his schedule was clear and it seemed probable that the first of his several talks with Mr. Roosevelt would begin after the luncheon.

De Gaulle arrived late yesterday by plane and was met with full military honors, including a 17-gun salute, U. S. Army, Navy, Air and Marine corps commanders greeted him as he stepped off the plane.

Ohio Has Had Three Mine Disasters In Four Years

POWHATAN POINT, July 7.—The death of 64 miners deep in the Powhatan coal mine yesterday was the third major Ohio mine disaster in four years.

Seventy-two perished in an explosion and fire at the Willow Grove mine at Neffs in March, 1940, and eight months later 31 died in a disaster at the Nelms mine near Cadiz.

The worst Ohio disaster was at Millfield, Athens county, in 1930, when 80 men lost their lives.

Hanegan Will Query F.D.R. On Wallace's Chances On Ticket

(By Associated Press)
Democratic political maneuvering reached a pre-convention peak today with National Chairman Robert E. Hanegan coming from Chicago to Washington presumably to find out just how strongly President Roosevelt wants to see Henry A. Wallace again in second place on the party ticket.

One major task is out of the way—the selection of a chairman of the platform-making resolutions committee. The national committee announced at Washington yesterday that House Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts had been picked for that important position. That action places a down-the-line-for-President man in a key position to translate presidential preferences into party planks.

With the Democrats thus busy, the news from the Republicans was highlighted by a prediction from Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan that Nominee Thomas E. Dewey would get more than 300 electoral votes for President in November. Only 266 are needed.

Vandenberg, visiting Dewey at Albany, N. Y., to talk over issues, said the situation in the middle west is excellent from the Republican standpoint.

Dewey's running mate, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, said he would discuss campaign plans with Dewey after about a week. Bricker is off to Canada for a vacation.

Convinced that the President will be nominated for a fourth term, most Democrats agree that the platform to be submitted to the convention, which opens in Chicago July 19, will be tailored to fit his wishes.

Drowns Rescuing Youth
CLEVELAND, July 7.—Eugene Kraus, 47, counselor for the Young Men's Christian association here, was drowned yesterday as he made a futile effort to rescue Richard Wyman, 9, who had fallen into a gorge near Aurora Boys' camp.

TWELVE SOLDIERS PERISH IN WRECK

(By Associated Press)
JELLICO, Tenn., July 7.—Twelve soldiers, the engineer and fireman of a Louisville and Nashville passenger train were killed in the train's plunge into a 50-foot gorge of the Clear river 11 miles south of here last night.

Some unofficial estimates said 25 were killed and 250 hurt. The locomotive and five cars toppled down the gorge.

The kitchen and baggage cars of the southbound train, reported carrying more than 1,000 soldiers just out of basic training, were burned.

Rescuers worked doggedly early today to free two soldiers trapped in one of the smashed coaches. Doctors gave blood plasma transfusions to one of them, pinned down in the gorge wreckage. Two others, who had been trapped were extricated, one of them dead.

The fireman, identified at a Jellico hospital as J. W. Tummins of Etowah, died several hours after he was hurled free of the wreckage.

Pvt. Wallace Lewis of Canton, O., a passenger on one of the cars, fell hurled into the gorge, said, "I saw a big flash, and someone said, 'there's going to be a wreck.' There was. I crawled out of the car, fell into the shallow creek, and then stumbled out."

SAYS LARGER CITIES HURT RURAL AMERICA

YELLOW SPRINGS, July 7.—Urban America has sucked the life blood from rural America, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan told the Institute of International Relations today.

Morgan, former chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority and a leader in liberal education, said he feared the present attitudes and habits of Americans toward small communities "are tending to make certain the small population of two or three generations hence will be less virile, less intelligent, more ignorant and prejudiced, of lower character, and of generally poorer cultural inheritance."

Overall planning of small communities is needed, he stressed; social, educational and economic opportunity between city and small community should be equalized.

The rural community, he declared, largely determines the character of government, business and church, since the small communities replenish the city population.

Admits Gasoline Theft

LISSON, July 7—Richard James, 18, one of two youths taken into custody in East Liverpool Wednesday night by Sheriff George Hayes, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing gasoline at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Felix P. Butch last night. He was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond. The other youth was turned over to the juvenile court.

Jap Zero Pilot Fails To Trick Lisbon Airman

LISSON, July 7—Capt. Thomas P. Bruey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bruey, E. Washington st., veteran of 56 combat missions as a member of the 7th AAF Mitchell bomber formation stationed in the Central Pacific, had this story to relate in a letter sent home.
During a mission in which his formation was assembling over Ponape, prior to a raid on Jap-held territory, his co-pilot called his attention to an extra plane in the group. At first it was thought to be one of their own planes out of formation but it soon turned out to be a Jap Zero riding along with them. As soon as he was discovered the Zero rolled through the formation with guns blazing. He got away and did not do any damage, and after the one dive never returned.

mans have become decidedly more vocal.
If the Allied governments follow the program which we've been led to understand has been laid down, there will be no balm in Gilead for Herr Hitler. There will be absolutely unconditional surrender. There will be no negotiated peace terms, but the Prussian barbarians will take what they can get. There will be occupation of the Reich by Allied armies for many years. This military-minded nation will get the military rule it admires.
Nazism will be wiped out—look, stock and barrel. So will Prussian militarism. This will mean that individuals must be removed in one way or another from society. And there are thousands upon thousands of Germans who are charged specifically with atrocities, many involving wholesale massacres. The penalty for murder in most countries is death or life imprisonment.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

That night they were all sitting on the Wright porch watching the wind blow the leaves across the lawn. John P. and Jim were debating the presidential campaign with some heat. Ellery sat by himself in a corner, smoking.

"John, you know I don't like these political arguments!" said Hermie. "Goodness, you men get so hot under the collar!"

Jim grinned. "All right, Mother. Then he said casually: 'Oh, by the way, darling, I got a letter from my sister Rosemary this morning. Nora's tone was bright. 'How nice. What does she write, dear?'"

Pat drifted toward Ellery and sat down at his feet. "The usual stuff. She does say she'd like to meet you—all of you."

"Well, I should think so!" declared Hermie. "I'm very anxious to meet your sister, Jim. Is she coming for a visit?"

"I was thinking of asking her, but—"

"Now, Jim," said Nora. "You know I've asked you dozens of times to invite Rosemary to Wrightsville."

"Then it's all right with you, Nor?" asked Jim. Nora laughed. "What's the matter with you? Give me her address and I'll drop her a note tonight."

"Don't bother, darling. I'll write her myself."

When they were alone, a half hour later, Pat said to Ellery: "Nora was scared."

"Yes, it's a poser." Ellery circled his knees with his arms. "Of course, the letter that stirred Jim up this morning was the same letter he just said he got from his sister."

"Ellery, Jim's holding something back."

"No question about it."

"If sister Rosemary just wrote about wanting to come for a visit, or anything as trivial as that, why did Jim burn her letter?"

Mr. Queen kept silent for a long time. Finally he mumbled: "Go to bed, Patty. I want to think."

On the morning of November 8th, Jim Haight's sister, Rosemary, came to Wrightsville. Ellery Queen saw her get off the train at the Wrightsville station, and trip over to Jim and kiss him, and turn to Nora with animation, presenting a spruce cheek; Mr. Queen also saw the two women laugh and chatter as Jim and the porter picked up and made for Jim's car.

An Ellery's weather eye clouded over. That night, at Nora's, he had an opportunity to test his first barometric impression.

Soon he decided that Rosemary Haight was no bucolic maiden on an exciting journey; that she was menacingly attractive. Hermie, Pat, and Nora disliked her instantly; Ellery could tell that from the extreme politeness with which they treated her. As for John P., he was charmed and spryly gallant. Hermie reproached him in the silent language of the eye.

Ellery spent a troubled night trying to put Miss Rosemary Haight together in the larger puzzle, and not succeeding.

Jim was busy at the bank these days and left the entertaining of his sister to Nora. Dutifully Nora drove Rosemary about the countryside, showing her the "sights." It was a little difficult for Nora to sustain the charming-hostess illusion, since Rosemary had a supercilious attitude towards many things.

Then there was the gantlet of the town's ladies to run... teas for the guest, an ambitious mah-jongg party, a wiener roast on the lawn one moonlit night, a church social which was hard, considering that secretly they agreed to the truth of all the charges.

"I wish she'd leave," said Pat to Ellery a few days after Rosemary's arrival. "Isn't that a horrid thing to say? But I do. And now she's sent for her trunk!"

"But I thought she didn't like it here."

"That's what I can't understand, either. Nora says it was supposed to be a 'flying' visit, but Rosemary acts as if she means to dig in for the winter. And Nora can't very well discourage her."

"What's Jim say?"

"Nothing to Nora, but—" Pat lowered her voice and looked around—"apparently he's said something to Rosemary, because I happened in this morning and there was Nora trapped in the serving pantry while Jim and Rosemary, who evidently thought Nora was upstairs, were having an argument in the dining room. That woman has a temper!"

"What was the argument about?" asked Ellery.

"I came in at the tail end and didn't hear anything important but Nora says it was... well, frightening. Nora wouldn't tell me what she'd heard, but she was terribly upset—she looked the way she did when she read those letters that tumbled out of the toxicology book."

Rosemary Haight's trunk arrived the next day. Steve Polaris, who ran the local express agency, delivered the trunk himself—an overgrown affair that looked as if it might be packed with imported evening gowns. Steve lugged it up Nora's walk on his broad back. Mr. Queen and Pat who were watching from the Wright porch, saw him carry it into Nora's house and come out a few minutes later accompanied by Rosemary, who was wearing a candid red, white, and blue negligee.

Ellery and Pat saw Rosemary sign Steve's receipt book and go back into the house. As Steve slouched down the walk grinning, Ellery said suddenly, "Pat, do you know this truckman well?"

"Steve? That's the only way you can know him."

Steve tossed his receipt book on the driver's seat of his truck and began to climb in.

"Then distract him. Right now! Get him out of sight of that truck for two minutes!"

Pat instantly called: "Oh, Steve—e-e-e!" and tripped down the porch steps. Ellery followed in a saunter. No one was in sight anywhere on the Hill.

Pat was slipping her arm through Steve's, saying something about her piano, and there wasn't a man she knew strong enough to move it from where it was to where she wanted it, and of course when she saw Steve...

Steve went with Pat into the Wright house, visibly pleased. Ellery was at the truck in two bounds. He snatched the receipt book from the front seat. Then he took a piece of charred paper from his wallet and began riffling the pages of the book.

When Pat reappeared with Steve, Mr. Queen was at Hermie's zinnia bed surveying the blossoms with the sadness of a poet. Steve gave him a scornful look and passed on. "I was wrong," mumbled Ellery.

"About Rosemary. My hunch was: This woman Rosemary doesn't seem cut from the same cloth as Jim Haight. They don't seem like brother and sister at all."

"Ellery!"

"Oh, it was possible. But... she is his sister."

"And you proved that through Steve's truck? Wonderful!"

"I was wrong," mumbled Ellery.

"About Rosemary. My hunch was: This woman Rosemary doesn't seem cut from the same cloth as Jim Haight. They don't seem like brother and sister at all."

German War Prisoners Help To Harvest Ohio Farm Crops

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

PRISONER OF WAR STOCKADE, Camp Perry, July 7—German prisoners of war—most of them from Hitler's Afrika Korps, but including a newly arrived contingent from the Normandy beachhead—are serving as paid laborers to harvest northern Ohio's fruit and vegetable crops.

Still obviously disdainful of American ways and people, the one-time Axis fighters are sent in work details into fields and orchards within a 50-mile radius under War Manpower commission assignment.

Farmers pay the government $2.80 a day, prevailing rates, for the laborers, but the prisoners receive from the army only 80 cents a day under international agreement. The allowance for those who do not work is a dime a day, and "most of them are anxious to earn their extra money as well as use up their time," says Col. Harold D. Woolley, Camp Perry commander.

Col. Woolley and Lieut. Col. E. C. McCormick, commander of the prison camp, recently conducted a tour of the compound for Ohio newspapermen.

The first prisoners to arrive here, more than 2,500 men captured in Africa, were brought in June 6, D-day for the Allied invasion of France. Twenty days later, several hundred Germans who had opposed that landing arrived on a heavily guarded train.

Prisoners Still Confident Officers who are in daily contact with the prisoners report them still confident of Axis victory, and said the Germans regard American newspaper and radio reports as "propaganda."

The men wear their Wehrmacht uniforms until they are worn out, and then receive issues of "Class X" salvage clothing from the army. They live in huts, five to a cabin, and are formed into companies and battalions. Each company has its own non-commissioned officer as commander, a clerk and a mess sergeant. An officer equivalent to an American top sergeant is spokesman for all of them.

Food in the same amounts and quality issued to Americans is prepared and served from company kitchens by prison cooks.

While most of them give American officers the German army stiff arm salute and exclude confidence of victory, U. S. officers regard them as "fine fighting men, and fairly well educated."

Red Cross packages arrive regularly from Germany, as do packages from families of some of the men. They receive German cigarettes, prized in preference to American brands, foods peculiar to their tastes, toilet articles, books and similar articles. Two canteens also are operated on the stockade where the men can buy tobacco, toilet articles—and 32 per cent beer.

Many prisoners still are available for labor details, Col. McCormick said.

They are back in camp every night, although Col. McCormick reported plans afoot to establish "side camps" at Napoleon and Celina, O., making prison labor available over a larger part of the state.

Frightful Fish Story

KANSAS CITY—J. G. Ellis and Richard Staley, with Staley's son Billy, saw a commotion in the river. Then they saw a large fish chasing a one-pounder.

The little fellow was going so fast that he zoomed out of the water to the river bank. He flopped once and then was still.

When the fishermen picked him up he was dead, with no mark of injury. The men decided he died of fright.

Public Warning!

BEWARE OF PIN-WORMS

Wartime living conditions may be the cause of spreading Pin-Worm infection. Scientific reports in many communities have shown at least one-third of the examined children and grown-ups to be victims of Pin-Worms—often without knowing what was wrong!

Watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms in your child or yourself: the tormenting, embarrassing rectal itch, the uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting, finicky appetite.

After centuries of distress caused by Pin-Worms, a new and highly effective way to deal with this stubborn pest has recently been discovered. This scientific discovery, hailed by medical authorities, is a remarkable drug (gentian violet). It is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to destroy the creatures.

So don't take chances with Pin-Worms. At the first warning sign, ask your druggist for P-W, and follow the directions. P-W means Pin-Worm relief!

Salem China Wins Again In Extra Inning Fray Over Sheens

Pump Team Takes Slugfest From Jim's 12-11; Potters Rally To Down Monks 10-4

The Salem Chinas proved that old story once again yesterday—that it's easier to get a lead on the Pottery than to keep it.

For the fifth straight Class A softball test, the China came from behind in the late innings and knocked off a nearly-victorious Sheens crew 10-4 after trailing through the entire ball game. It was the 14th straight win for the league champs and their first third round victory.

In the other contest, which went into an extra inning after an unbelievable seventh session, Demings managed to edge a determined and amazing Jim's squad 12-11. Jim's pushed themselves to the front in the first half of the seventh inning by cracking out eight runs to lead 11-7, but Demings responded in their half of the inning with the four tying runs and the game went into an extra.

Sheens muffed the golden opportunity of the season by losing 10-4 to the China after they had the game seemingly on ice with the first inning lead of 4-0.

China Tallies Late

The Potters didn't score until the fourth, when one marker was chalked up on a hit by Raker Eddy. In the fifth two more runs, after two men were out, put the Potters in the ball game, 4-3.

No score was made in the eighth, but in the ninth Fred Reese, China first baseman, came to the plate and sent out his second homer of the season.

Demings had a difficult time with Jim's. In the first inning two Demings runs and another in the third made an early lead, 3-0.

Jim's came back in the fourth with two markers to make it a ball

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, July 7.—America's importers of fistic talent may find a good prospect after the war in Vince Hawkins, English middleweight who is rated a coming British empire champion. This 21-year-old railway fireman recently belted the daylights out of Elie's champ, Pat O'Connor, for his 50th undefeated pro fight. He's had one draw in 3½ years. Colleges that had scheduled contests with Penn State in such minor sports as hockey, gymnastics, golf, etc., are getting letters calling them off. Seems the Nittany Lions can't keep up a full program with reduced civilian enrollment.

BOUDREAU NURSING MORE WORRIES AS TRIBE MEETS SOX

Indian Manager Now Concerned Over Team's Batting Slump

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON, July 7.—Manager Lou Boudreau was nursing another worry today as his Cleveland Indians opened a four-game series with the second place Boston Red Sox.

Failure of his front-line pitchers to produce has been the Tribe's main concern almost since the start of the campaign, but now it's the hitters who are going into a slump.

Although they lead the league in batting, the Indians haven't scored a run in the last 14 innings. Atley Donald of the Yankees turned them back with a seven-hitter Wednesday and yesterday Hank Borowy delivered a four-hit shutout as the erstwhile Bronx Bombers triumphed 4 to 0.

LAKERS PLAY B-E SQUAD FROM AKRON IN SUNDAY BATTLE

Defeated by Cuyahoga Falls 12-10 for their third setback in 10 games last week, the Carrollton Merchants, representing Lake Placencia this season, will be in there trying for another win on the Lake diamond at 2:30 p. m. Sunday when they tangle with the highly-rated Akron B-E team.

Composed entirely of top-scholarship talent, the Akron aggregation is rated as one of the best teams in the city AA league. The visitors have won six of their eight games this season and loom as a strong contender for the Akron city title.

George Yanen, 17-year-old hurling sensation of the Merchants, will do the elbowing for the Lakers. Gail Walters will be behind the plate. The regular infield will be used with Paul Leatherberry on first, "Ant" DeNicola on second, Ed Finnical, just home from Springfield where he played with the Ohio State leaguers, at short and Dennis "Chief" Hendrix at third, with an outfield consisting of Chuck Boesch in left, Vic Duval in center and "Juggs" Meese in right.

An effort is being made to bring the Homestead Greys, Kansas City Monarchs or the Cleveland Buckeyes to the Lake field this summer.

Flatbush Flock Cold As Reds And Red Sox Turn On Heat

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston is the current hot club of the American league, and Cincinnati is running a fever temperature in the National, but there isn't any doubt today about the temperature of the Brooklyn Dodgers. It's a sub-zero minus 10 for one of the longest losing streaks of the 1944 season.

The Flatbush flock hasn't won since leaving the banks of the Gowanus, and needs only four more setbacks in the weekend series with Pittsburgh to tie the all-time Brooklyn record of 14, a disaster that befell Burreigh Grimes' warriors in 1937. They still have three to go to equal the Cubs' 13-game flop of early season.

Bucky Walters chalked up his 14th victory of the season last night when he hurled Cincinnati to a 10-4 triumph at the expense of Rookie Ralph Branca. It was the ninth Redleg win in the last 10 starts and Walters' sixth in a row. Ray Mueller of Cincy set a new consecutive game catching record at 134.

Joe Cronin's Red Sox continued to stick on the heels of the St. Louis Browns in the American by taking a 13-3 walkover from Detroit. Bob Muncie protected the Browns' 2½ game margin by shutting out Philadelphia with four hits, 5-0, with the help of Vern Stephens' 3-run homer.

Hank Borowy of the Yankees whitewashed Cleveland on a four-hitter, 4-0, to decision Mel Harder with Mike Milosevich and Mike Garback showing the way. Mickey Haefer of Washington turned back Chicago with a 5-0 edge over Orval Grove.

Bill Voiselle took a fall out of the St. Louis Cardinals as he pitched the New York Giants to a 10-1 verdict that snapped a 7-game Card win streak.

Chicago Cubs climbed back out of the cellar at Boston's expense, 11-6. Bob Elliott led Pittsburgh to a 5-3 nod over the Phillies as Nick Strincevich took a win over Ken Raffensberger.

Four Hurlers Headed For "20 Winners" Select Group

BY FRANK ECK
AP Features Sports Writer

NEW YORK.—Four hurlers who know how it feels to win 20 games in one season in the majors, again have an excellent chance to crash what is commonly known as the "Select Circle."

There are two in each league. The American League hopefuls are Paul (Dizzy) Trout of the Detroit Tigers, whose 20 wins last season tied Spud Chandler of the Yankees.

OLD TIMERS MEET NEWS IN 'A' LEOP

At 7 p. m. tonight in Class A softball the News clashes again with the Recreation in what promises to be a tight game.

In two contests this season these two teams have battled extra innings—once to a nine inning draw, 2-2, and the second time to a ten inning 3-2 News victory.

Fitcher Ralph Gregg will have a bolstered batting crew to back him up today as both hard-hitting Shorty Barton and Third Baseman Herb Brown are back in action with the old Timers. Barton is cracking them out at a 4½ pace and Brown is back in the lineup after his ankle injury in the first News-Recreation battle over a month ago.

The other game tonight features Mullins against an improved Paxsons aggregation at 6 p. m. Both squads are hitting at an equal pace and should have a difficult time before the winner is decided.

Both pitchers, Marty Pauline for Mullins and Mutt Schaeffer for Paxsons, have been turning in excellent performances the second round.

Oven Canning Dangerous, Safety Council Declares

CHICAGO—The safest way to preserve fruits and vegetables is by the boiling water bath and the open kettle method, says the National Safety Council after a study of 1943 canning accidents. Eighty per cent of last year's home canning accidents were caused by the oven canning method, the council said. About 15 per cent were caused by pressure canning. Comparatively few mishaps occurred when open kettles and boiling water were used. More accident occurred with beans than with any other vegetable.

RECORD U. S. WHEAT YIELD IS FORESEEN

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 7 — A record United States wheat crop totaling 1,061,000,000 bushels and a yield of 2,868,000,000 bushels of corn were forecast today in a report of crop conditions as of July 1 prepared by C. M. Calvin, statistician for James E. Bennett & Co., Chicago commission firm. Winter wheat, the forecast said, now is expected to total 765,000,000 bushels, approximately 70 million bushels more than estimated on June 1. "Yield where harvest is in progress are generally higher than indicated a month ago," Calvin said. Acreage in spring wheat was estimated at 18,179,000 and production was forecast at 296,000,000 bushels.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The men overseas don't mince any words about the way they want to find this country when they come marching home... do they, Judge?"

"They certainly don't, Herb... and they shouldn't. They're doing a masterful job fighting over there to protect our rights and they have good license to expect us to protect their back here at home. One thing they're mighty clear on is their stand on prohibition."

"Their position on that subject was stated very emphatically in a poll taken recently among American service men in England by the British Institute of Public Opinion. When hundreds of men were asked point blank how they would vote on prohibition, 85% of them stated, in unmistakable terms, that they would vote against it. There's no doubt about it, Herb... the men overseas don't want any action taken on that subject while they're away."

"And they're 100% right, Judge, because I know how I felt when I came home after the last war—only to learn that we had been over there fighting for so impractical a thing as Prohibition."
